Caleb: Yes, but Tucker Carlson is such a fucking clown.
Caleb: And you can understand how hesitant I am to use that term.
Caleb: But I really mean it.
Caleb: I stand by it.
me: read his piece from yesterday defending their articles
me: doesn't address any of the inaccuracies
me: just says "I edited them myself!"
Caleb: I'm just gonna re-read that letter all day long.
Caleb: In fact, I'm never going to read anything else ever again.
me: It strikes me that's the one thing I'm missing in my daily reading.
me: All best!
Caleb: He's the Peter Pan of Young Republicans!
me: that was Mark Foley!
me: zip zap!
Caleb: In all fairness to Mark Foley, I'm not sure he was ever as big a fag as Tucker Carlson is.
Caleb: As I recall, he was a pretty inoffensive, non-culture-warrior moderate, as far as Florida Republicans go.
me: If it makes you uncomfortable, ask around. I'm pretty sure we know a lot of the same people.
Caleb: Wait, is that Tucker's e-mail or Foley's IM's?
Caleb: Ha!
me: Ha!
Caleb: Were you being cute when you said Breitbart is pubic enemy number one?
me: he says he is
me: go check it out
Caleb: Yeah, I just saw it.
Caleb: I'm kinda disoriented by being in Tyler.
Caleb: I personally have an inordinate amount of antipathy for the guy for stirring up all this annoying shit I have to deal with.
me: so he's your public enemy number one?
Caleb: No.
Caleb: Tucker Carlson is.
Caleb: But Breitbart's no small source of irritation.
Caleb: If you were here at ground zero, you'd understand.
me: YEAH I'M JUST IN HIGHLAND PARK
Caleb: Buckley-ville.
me: we can pursuuuuuuuuuuuuuue that if you'd like

Caleb: I'm in Mark Levin-ville.
me: but let's suspend it for a moment
me: lol Mark Levin
